

Mr

From: mark taylor [marktayloruk@yahoo.com]
Sent: 11 February 2012 12:48
To: LETTERS@THE-SUN.CO.UK
Cc: E. Goodman
Subject: age limits

Linda Blair is wrong. Parents know their children better than censors and other dogooders. If they're willing to let them watch or play 18 films or video games, that's their business.

Nor is respect for rules and regulations such a good thing. There are far too many petty rules overenforced by inflexible jobsworths. This especially applies to those imposed by Political Correctness, the Health and Safety obsessives, and the Eurocrats-both EU and ECHR. Our governments have been far too keen on implementing and enforcing them.

Mark Taha
93 Venner Road
SE26 5HU