Dear Mr Baron

Thank you for your email to the Attorney Generals Office.

The Attorney General is principal legal advisor to government and as such is unable to offer any legal advice, assistance or support to individuals. As a result we are unable to assist in your queries.

You ask about the undercover Police Officer, Mark Kennedy, as I have already informed you, your original letter was passed to the Home Office as it is a matter for that department to comment upon, I can only suggest that you contact them if you have any further questions.

Yours sincerely

James Ross

Dear Mr Ross,

Thank you for your letter of January 18 in response to my letter of January 13. I look forward to receiving a substantive reply from the Home Office in due course. In the meantime, I would be most grateful if you could clarify the following points re the undercover police officer Mark Kennedy.

On what legal authority – what statute or other law – was his passport and were any other forged documents provided?

If these documents were issued without proper legal authority, will all those involved in this criminal act face prosecution?

Were the guidelines set down in the Home Office Circular of May 12, 1969, “Informants who take part in crime”, and any relevant subsequent circulars, adhered to in this case?

Yours Sincerely,

A Baron
