Not For The Timeline

I begin with the acknowledgments of two deaths: Anne Nightingale and Ted Goodman relating stories about both. Stories, not anecdotes.

I then went on to discuss a number of cases from my files starting with an allegation of gang-rape that was thrown out by the judge without going to the jury.

Some of the cases discussed herein are amusing but not the case of the guy who was convicted of raping his 9 year old daughter, a conviction that was later overturned. I spent some time discussing this after playing a short clip of a news report.

The weirdest case was that of a doctor in California who was tried for and acquitted of rape.

I ended with a very brief mention of not a false allegation of rape but of paternity against a rock musician.
