Nicola Fellows was a beautiful young girl, not quite ten years old. On October 9, 1986, she and her friend Karen Hadaway failed to return home. The following day, during a massive search, their bodies were found in a play den at Brighton's Wild Park. Both girls had been sexually assaulted and strangled.

Russell Bishop was tried for their murder in December 1987 but was sensationally acquitted. He went on to kidnap and nearly murder an even younger girl, for which he received a life sentence. He was still in prison in 2018 when it was announced he would stand trial again for the double murder.

Nicola and Karen were buried together.
