

Owen Jones Lies About The Grooming Gangs

[The following is a transcription of my narration only.]

If you haven't heard of Owen Jones, he is a typical champagne socialist creep who calls himself a journalist. He calls himself an anti-racist too, well, who wouldn't? He says of con artist Ibram Kendi, he is a brilliant writer and historian. Yeah, right. Anti-racist or not, Jones doesn't like brown girls, at least he certainly doesn't like this one.

He probably likes brown boys, but that's another story. Here is what Comrade Jones says about the grooming gang scandal.

The BNP also believe 2 and 2 make 4. Is that racist too?

It's a myth, says Owen, a racist myth.

But is it?

Notice he cites the Guardian. Did I tell you Owen writes for the Guardian?

These are lies and distortions as I will demonstrate shortly, but first I will point out that Suella Braverman is far from the first politician to speak out about the grooming gangs.

These two lowlifes were convicted way back in November 2010 and were sentenced the following January. Here is that rarest of birds, an honest Labour politician, the former Home Secretary Jack Straw, talking about the scandal at the time.

White grooming gangs are rare, and they tend to be homosexuals. Like you, Owen. A lot of child-related sex offences nowadays tends to be men looking at videos, or even photographs of kids in various states of undress and poses. Reprehensible though that may be, it is a far cry from serial aggravated rape.

Now let's look at the true facts about the reality of these grooming gangs. They were made up overwhelmingly of Pakistani men. Apart from that there was one Sikh, and a handful of white women who assisted in the recruitment of victims.

Now here are four short excerpts from a documentary that exposes the truth you will not or cannot face. When you complained about racist stereotypes, are you sure you didn't mean anti-racist stereotypes, Owen? White men may be responsible for most of the good things in the modern world – like the technology you are using now to slag them off - but they aren't responsible for all the world's evils too. Here is another example of how left wing censorship was used to promote this myth, the one you are promoting, Owen.

And here is a longer clip that exposes how the Government itself promoted this myth. Figures don't lie, but liars can figure. Liars like you, Owen.

Finally, here is a Pakistani who is prepared to confront these uncomfortable facts. Unlike you. Got that, Owen?