

The Trans Monsters Are Coming For Your Kids

[The following is a transcript of my narration only. One tiny note, just before 8 minutes I use the word disinformation instead of discrimination as in the image on the screen. Although this was an error on my part, disinformation does indeed cause many sexually confused people distress, far more so than any kind of discrimination.]

You probably won't recognise this girl unless you know her, but I think we can agree she's gorgeous. This photograph was taken in August 2007 when she was not quite 10 years old.

I don't think of boys as gorgeous, for obvious reasons, but I think we can agree this is a good looking kid. If you don't recognise him, he is Prince George, currently second in line to the Throne. He is ten years old in this photograph.

When that first photograph was taken, this girl could have become my stepdaughter, or so I thought, but that was a delusion I was sold.

This short video isn't about my delusions though, it is about the delusions of the young, and the evil people who exploit them for financial or political gain, and even worse, those who foster their delusions because they are sick in the head.

These people are those who promote what has come to be known in recent years as the trans movement. In 2022, I made a full length documentary about the trans movement. I've put links to it below. I've made my position clear in that documentary, but for the avoidance of doubt, I will make it clear again. I have no problem with adult men who want to pump themselves full of drugs or even mutilate themselves so they can pass for women in their own delusional minds. I would advise them against it, strongly, but as long as they don't misrepresent themselves to other people, and stay out of women's spaces, my view is live and let live.

I have no problem with adult women who want to go down the same route though again I would advise them against it, strongly. But the young, that's a different matter.

The late Chris Tame used to say whenever the powers-that-be or political activists talk about protecting children, what they really mean is destroying your rights. This was usually in reference to censorship. Those were not his exact words, but I knew Chris very well, and that was the spirit of them.

Here, I'm not advocating for the protection of children, rather I'm telling you what some very sick, very evil people, are doing to kids at this very moment, and what they will do to yours if they can get their hands on them.

Many of these people are doing their best to convince young boys and especially young girls that they were born in the wrong body, and that they should "change sex". There are things we can change about ourselves. We can change our behaviour, our beliefs. We can change our weight. We can improve our fitness. Whether or not we want to, our bodies change as we grow older. But there are things we cannot change; one of these is our sex.

The term transgender is therefore misleading. In particular, there is no such human being as a transgender child. What there are, are kids who are sexually confused. This is something that is surprisingly common but is for many a rite of passage. Teen years can be especially difficult, because our bodies change drastically. The most pronounced changes are those that occur in girls, in particular, they grow breasts, and they also menstruate.

In an earlier age, this could be especially distressing because sex education was virtually non-existent, and many women were too embarrassed to discuss the subject with their daughters. The fact that this is now largely no longer the case is one of the benefits of sex education, but there are many downsides to it. One is the normalisation of homosexuality, which kids are now being told is gay rather than the sexual perversion that it is.

Some kids of both sexes go through a phase when they are attracted to the same sex; this doesn't mean they are homosexuals or lesbians, for some this is another rite of passage. When I was growing up in the 1960s, smoking was something many kids tried, usually because their parents told them not to. But cutting off the breasts of a teenage girl because she had a difficult time of puberty, or castrating a teenage boy because he prefers to play with dolls rather than toy cars, that is a whole new ball game. Incidentally, there is nothing innately wrong about boys playing with dolls. Remember Action Man?

Some youngsters are particularly vulnerable when it comes to this kind of brainwashing, especially those who suffer from autism.

In Britain, and especially the United States, the trans movement has been targeting the young, and at times the very young. Here is one sick example, but there are many more.

Boston Children’s Hospital went so far as to perform mastectomies on teenage girls. The moronic Democrat Congresswoman Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez lied about this in Congress. I have put a link to the full clip below, but here is the relevant excerpt.

This woman presents herself as a gynaecologist. In reality she is a modern Dr Frankenstein. She and people like her belong in prison. This is what Boston Children’s Hospital would have you believe.

“Gender dysphoria occurs when there is a conflict between the sex you were assigned at birth and the gender with which you identify.”

Sex is not assigned at birth. There is a caveat here, for a full explanation refer to my aforementioned documentary, Transsanity, but briefly, there is a tiny number of people who are born with genetic anomalies. These people are hermaphrodites, intersex in modern parlance. They will not be discussed here because they are nothing to do with the trans movement, which is about people who have psychological problems rather than physiological anomalies.

“The distress related to this condition has been associated with an increased risk of substance abuse, self-harming behaviors, and suicide attempts. This is mostly because of the increased risk of discrimination for individuals who are transgender or gender non-conforming.”

Gender dysphoria symptoms

People with gender dysphoria feel that the sex they were assigned at birth does not match the gender with which they identify. For example, someone who was born with the reproductive organs and other physical traits of a male may identify as female. The word "dysphoria" means significant uneasiness and dissatisfaction, and gender dysphoria can start to present as early as childhood in some people. Other symptoms include:

- distress
- anxiety
- depression
- negative self-image
- strong dislike of your sexual anatomy
- strong preference for the toys and activities associated with the other gender (in children)

The distress related to this condition has been associated with an increased risk of substance abuse, self-harming behaviors, and suicide attempts. This is mostly because of the increased risk of discrimination for individuals who are transgender or gender non-conforming.

Gender dysphoria was sometimes previously called "gender identity disorder" and "transsexualism," but these terms are outdated and may be considered offensive. Gender dysphoria is not the same as homosexuality, which refers to sexual orientation rather than gender identification. It is also different from gender non-conformity, which refers to engaging in behaviors that don't conform to gender norms or stereotypes, such as cross-dressing.

Where do they find this rubbish? Discrimination? A boy who thinks he is a girl and acts like one may well be laughed at by his peers, but this often happens to people who are the odd man out, so to speak. People who have unconventional beliefs or behave in unconventional ways may well be subject to ridicule, alternatively they may be the object of curiosity, or admiration.

How we care for gender dysphoria

Our skilled team includes specialists in plastic surgery, urology, endocrinology, nursing, gender management, and social work, who collaborate to provide a full suite of treatment options for transgender teens and young adults. By partnering with the hospital's nationally recognized GeMS Program, we help youths with gender identity concerns transfer seamlessly to surgical care, if and when they are ready. We also work with transgender teens and young adults who are medically managed outside of Boston Children's.

Gender dysphoria isn't a medical condition, it's a psychological one. Psychological problems have psychological solutions; they cannot be solved by mutilating the body, and that is what we are talking about.

This so-called specialist treatment is nothing more than expensive, life-changing, and often disastrous cosmetic surgery. Let's get this straight, if somehow you could teach a cat to bark, fetch a stick, and walk on a lead, it would still be a cat, not a trans-dog. Your sex is determined at the molecular level, not by make-up or by the most intrusive, horrendous surgery.

A girl who believes sincerely that she is a boy should be encouraged to come to terms with reality. Ditto a boy who believes he is a girl. We all have to come to terms with reality as we age, those of us who live long enough.

The modern Dr Frankensteins like the woman I showed you are far from the only people destroying young lives, there are powerful lobbying groups the world over who are doing that by pressurising governments to pass insane laws. One of their latest campaigns is to ban conversion therapy, and they are having some success.

Conversion therapy was directed initially at homosexuals, especially the young. Far from being gay, many homosexuals are unhappy with being attracted to other men. At one time, conversion therapy was quite popular, especially in the United States. Sadly, it has a high failure rate, but some homosexuals have found a positive alternative, like this man.

AMAZING EX-GAY CONVERSION STORY

BECKETT COOK

You can argue that Beckett Cook has simply replaced his sexual perversion with revealed truth, but Jesus won't give him AIDS.

Conversion therapy for so-called trans children (who do not exist) is simply about persuading them that they are indeed delusional and should not subject themselves to mutilation. Organisations like the odious Stonewall want so-called conversion therapy banned. In practice this would mean parents who try to protect their offspring from their own delusions and degenerates like Stonewall, could be criminalised.

Thank you, sir. He captions it:

“Is your teenage daughter confused? Depressed? Autistic?

A double mastectomy may be the answer.

GENDER AFFIRMING CARE - what could go wrong?”

The only thing more horrifying than this image is the fact that some people want to criminalise not the monsters who mutilated these clearly disturbed girls but parents who seek to talk them out of undergoing such insane medical procedures.

This is Chloe Cole, a clearly attractive teenager.

She'd be even more attractive if she hadn't had a double mastectomy at the age of 15. An adult who has sex with a 15 year old in California or almost anywhere in the world is committing a serious criminal offence, yet doctors were allowed to mutilate this poor girl at that age. Chloe is one of an increasing number of detransitioners. Her breasts are gone forever, but at least she will still be a woman, if a severely disfigured one. Other detransitioners, of both sexes, won't even have that privilege.

I could say a lot more, but if this hasn't convinced you, nothing will. Protect your daughters, and your sons, before it is too late. Don't allow yourself to be seduced by the dishonest rhetoric and outright lies of the trans lobby. One thing I haven't covered here is the hate, vitriol, even violence directed against people who oppose their sick plans. I will leave you with this montage to ponder that.
