Dear Ted Goodman,

Thanks for your letter of 28th February.

Sadly, most MPs are too scared to take up the issue of freedom of expression when it concerns sexually-explicit imagery.

They don't want to be seen going against the right-wing feminist/christian fundamentalist lobby.

You could try someone like Ken Livingstone or Tony Banks. They are your best chances. But even then, I don't hold out much hope. An approach from The Law Society or Liberty might carry more weight with them. Good luck!

The age of consent campaign is not "drawing to a close". It continues!!.....
