

OPEN LETTER TO THE BRITISH LEFT

It is a sad fact that not only do people often not say what they mean but very often they say the exact opposite of what they mean. For example, most people on the so-called anti-fascist left claim to be fighting fascism when what they are really doing is destroying individual rights, free speech and freedom of association (and non-association), and thereby furthering the cause of fascism. A certain Mr Gable claims to be fighting anti-Semitism when what he is really doing is acting out the stereotype of the Jewish Bolshevik revolutionary, and thereby inciting hatred against his race. Whether or not he does this consciously is a matter for him to discuss with his psychiatrist.

I, on the other hand, have an unpopular habit of meaning what I say and saying what I mean. Several times in recent months I have pointed out that I have no connection with a fellow independent researcher named Larry O'Hara. A lot of people have taken this to mean that I am connected with him; some have even taken it to mean that we are one and the same person. What are the facts?

I have met Larry O'Hara precisely once. I was introduced to him by my fellow Libertarian, the eclectic Mark Taha. Taha, who has done the odd errand for me, is an obsessive letter writer, reads every political journal imaginable, a considerable amount of non-political material, and has monitored the extreme right, and to a somewhat lesser extent the extreme left, since the seventies. He is a graduate in history and government and has an encyclopaedic knowledge of his subject.

Taha introduced me to O'Hara at a Libertarian Alliance conference on the environment last year. We ate together in a restaurant then the two of them went off alone, for O'Hara to record an interview with him for his thesis. Since that time I have received a number of phone calls from O'Hara. He always phones me; I don't know his number; he won't tell me. We have corresponded, and have exchanged documents, mostly press cuttings. Virtually all of this material has been in the public domain, though with varying degrees of abstruseness.

Larry O'Hara and I really only have one thing in common, a passionate desire to bury Gerry Gable. In my case, legally. I can't speak for O'Hara. I do most of my research in libraries. O'Hara has done an impressive amount of field work on Gable and his ugly co-racialists and goy fellow travellers at Searchlight, and has access to all sorts of stuff I don't, including internal documents of right wing and left wing organisations. He's doing a great job, but his research and analysis can't hold a candle to mine.

O'Hara is a socialist and a "green". I like Mother Earth, I also like freedom, so I wouldn't touch socialism with a barge pole.

O'Hara, in spite of empathising with the Palestinian people, won't ever say anything "the Jews" would find offensive. I'm not that spineless; I've done a great deal of research on the Jewish Question, including on the Holocaust, and the conclusion I have come to is that the worst enemy of the Jew has never been the anti-Semite but has always been the Jew. In particular, Jewish "anti-fascists" and mischief-makers (like Gable) and Jewish (read Zionist) leaders, who are a bunch of paranoid fascists who have had things all their own way since the end of World War II and have played a major role in destroying our precious freedoms on the pretext that their race needs and deserves special protection. The reality is that a group of obsessive Jew-haters, and misguided idealists - like Lady Birdwood, whom I am proud to call my good friend - think they are plotting to take over the world and date to put their insane ravings into print. Nobody of consequence has ever taken any notice. Nor ever will. In short, just as the Jewish menace was manufactured by anti-Semites and their fellow travellers, the fascist menace is a creation of Organised Jewry and their fellow travellers, Jew and Gentile, in the "anti-fascist" movement. It's a menace that was manufactured for good reason. It keeps the Jews and the govim in line, and it keeps the shekels rolling in to their beloved Israel.

A lot of people, including a certain Mr Gable, have claimed I am an anti-Semite. To those people I will say only this. Fuck you. If you had done the slightest field work on the Jewish Question you'd realise that the Zionists - who are no more Jewish than the indigenous population of Britain are Christian - are not only fascists, but that they hate the Orthodox. Literally hate them. Anti-Semites notwithstanding.

In May this year the police raided my flat and confiscated my computer and a great deal of research material on the spurious grounds that I had been publishing anti-Semitica. In reality, the fascists at Woburn House had fabricated allegations against me and leaned on them. They've got a big surprise coming to them, so have the police. They've had my property five months now and have found no evidence to back up these allegations because there is none. One of the publications they confiscated was a scholarly study of Jewish ritual murder, which I had originally written for an as yet unpublished book on anti-Jewish fabrication. A lot of people crowed over this, especially fascists.

You so-called anti-fascists might like to think seriously about what sort of society you've created when Organised Jewry shouts jump and the state says how high? And when the police can enter your property on the slightest spurious pretext and confiscate anything the servants of Imperial Zion find offensive. These are the same people who for the past half century have ruthlessly suppressed all opposition to their rape of Palestine, have condoned and funded the oppression, torture and murder of the Palestinian people and their children, and have ruthlessly smeared all their opponents as anti-Semitic. And they claim that a few cartoons published in a fund-raising letter constitutes an incitement to hatred against Jews. Talk about chutzpah. Anti-fascist Jews might also give some serious thought to this. Couldn't this sort of tyranny be the real reason Jews are hated?

Just for the record, forged name change affidavits aside, I am not Jewish, either on my mother's or my father's side. And I can prove it, but why the fuck should I? I have worked for some time with an anti-Zionist Rabbi, a Talmudic scholar of considerable depth. Unlike the cancer of political Zionism, Judaism is totally benign. Everything the anti-Semites and their fellow travellers say about the Jewish religion is bullshit. There is no connection between Judaism and communism, and, as any Jew who knows the Torah and Jewish history will tell you, there is no connection between Judaism and Zionism either.

Others have insinuated that because of some of the literature I have published through Anglo-Hebrew Publishing that I am anti-gay. They are too reserved. Having made a (purely academic) study of homosexuality, I can honestly say that I have no wish to associate with anyone afflicted with this most foul of social diseases. And while, from a Libertarian perspective, I will defend the right of sodomites to drown in their own poison, I attach the caveat that they do it behind closed doors and are not allowed to pollute the minds of the young with their filth.

Some misguided comrades in the misnamed anti-fascist movement think they can enlist mainstream Jewish support to outlaw the mythical disease of homophobia. There never was a more tragic case of barking up the wrong tree. The Orthodox wouldn't touch you with a barge pole; even the Zionists abhor this poison. That's the only decent thing I can find to say about them. People who compare the "plight" of homosexuals to the persecution of the Jews by Nazi Germany are insulting the dead.

Some people have taken offence to my publishing a Protocols of Zion logo on two of my publications superimposed with Gerry Gable's head. Tough. Gable is a snake, so putting his head on the symbolic snake of Judaism was most appropriate. Organised Jewry in Britain is still dumb enough to support this enemy of freedom and Western Man, in spite of his many times proven treachery. Until the Jews disown him totally, they deserve to be held to account for his misdeeds.
