Dear Mr Webb,

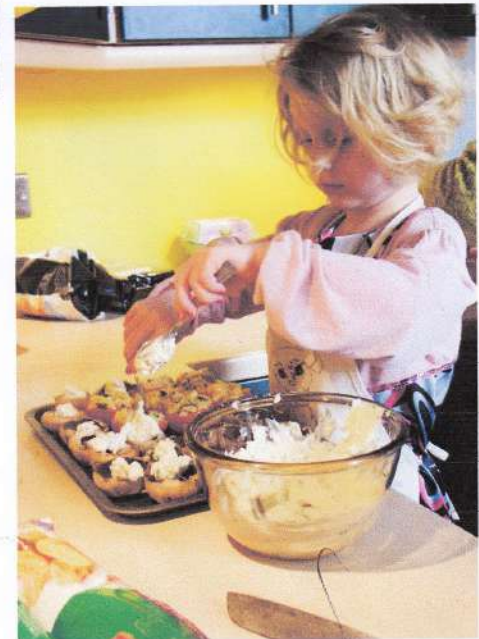

On behalf of my 6 year old daughter, Eleanor, I am writing a short and quite probably cheeky note to ask if Eleanor could have an autograph of yourself for her Doctor Who scrapbook. She is an avid follower of Doctor Who and loved your performance as Leeson in "Colony In Space". Eleanor wants to know what it was like working on the show.

Eleanor started watching Doctor Who in 2005 and was captivated by it. She wasn't even 2 years old, yet began quoting lines and even went as far as acting out whole scenes. She naturally wanted to watch the Doctor Who from when I was a boy. This led her to my old, battered "Colony In Space" VHS video, which she adores.

As a direct result of all this, she has started at Shana Goldman's Drama School in Brighton. Eleanor's first show was to be a seed, curled up on the floor, then growing and branching out, only for her leaves to fall, all to the sound of Erik Satie's Gymnopodie No1. It was in front of 200 people and she exhibited no signs of nerves. Whatever happens, I'm sure the lessons will instill a great confidence for later in life.

Asides Doctor Who, Eleanor's other hobbies include gardening and cooking and learning guitar and violin.

Pictures included are Eleanor practising her dance, stuffing tomatoes and mushrooms and visiting Stonehenge.

ELIVE 6 NOV 2009

Our latest commitment is to house some rescue Hedgehogs. Here are pictures of Pippin and Emily. Pippin is blind and has no sense of light or dark whatsoever. Her body clock is all out of synch; hence she comes out during the day. Emily is pictured with her litter of 2 of 3 babies. We think a male broke into the garden and had a night of passion. Eleanor feeds them before she goes to school and before her bedtime when they are not hibernating.

Thank you for reading this rambling letter. I hope you get an idea of Eleanor's life. We wish you all the best in the rest of your career and once again say thanks for making our TV viewing very special indeed.

Have a fantastic life,
Yours sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to read 'Tristan Maddocks'. The signature is stylized and cursive.
