Dear David

Apologies if I am writing to you again. I am sure my letters go missing in the post. The postal system is not the best. It's either that of your agent has not passed it onto you, or you're too busy to reply. I am hoping that I have managed to find the right person. I found your name and address on The Spotlight website. I apologies if I am writing to you and I have the wrong person, if so please could you drop me a quick note in the enclosed envelope so I don't bother you again.

I am writing to you because I am a huge fan of Doctor Who. I have been a fan since I was about six. I watched it for a couple of years before my mother banned me from watching it because I was having nightmares. I guess that is what gave me the passion for the Doctor. I have been a real active fan for many years and I love the show for all it stood for.

There are not words that can express how fantastic the new series of Doctor who is. It has lived up to all expectations and gone further. I don't think that Doctor who ever died and it is still alive and kicking after all these years, mainly due to the efforts of Big Finish and the BBC.

I love what Big Finish have done with the Doctor Who range and I continue to live through the Doctors adventures on audio. I love all the series' created by Big Finish, UNIT, Bernice Summerfield, Gallifrey, Dalek Wars, Cybermen, I, Davros, Iris Wildthyme, Unbound, Excelsis, The Sarah-Jane Mysteries, Companion Chronicles and the monthly stories

I have all the videos and DVD's as well. I have almost all the books ever released and the toys that have gone along with it. I have all the CDs, whether they are soundtracks or the spin off stories or the new Big Finish productions and I watched the 14-hour dedication to the show on UK Gold celebrating the 40th Anniversary. In 2005 I visited the Doctor Exhibition in Brighton which was awesome and am hoping to get to Blackpool later in the year. My father is a great carpenter and is in the process of building a full size Police Box for our garden for the kids to play in and for the use in our 'movies'. As you can probably tell I am passionate about Doctor Who, so much so that my 5- year-old son is a huge fan as well.

We make our own Doctor Who films where my 5 year old is the Doctor and his two year old sister is 'rubbish' Rose as she never does what the Doctor says. In the films they have fought the Daleks, Cybermen and the Yeti, they have great fun

I don't think I have a favourite doctor or companion, although I did grow up with the fifth doctor, because they all have their on good and bad qualities and I guess that's why it made it such a great program that never gets tired.

I think you're a great actor and I really love the way you brought Leeson in Colony in Space to life in the Classic TV Series. Your portrayal of your character and others like you makes the stories believable and is why I watch all the shows and listen to the CDs and continue to this day to be a huge fan. It's great that the BBC decided to bring Doctor Who back. The makers of the show have such a great cast, crew and writers to bring the Doctor back after all these years. I am really enjoying David Tennant's portrayal of the Doctor. I have thoroughly enjoyed all the seasons so far, they just keep getting better and better. I can't believe the third season is at an end but, I look forward to season four and the 2007 Christmas special.

I also love the new spin off shows Torchwood and Sarah Jane Investigates. To start with I didn't think it would work, but it has lived up to all expectations and gone further. They are both amazing shows. They are well written, directed and acted and I hope that Torchwood gets a second season and continues to carry on for many years to come and that Sarah Jane lives up to the high standards of the pilot.

Only time will tell whether the next series of Doctor Who will be as good as the last, whether Torchwood continues to be fantastic, whether Sarah Jane is as amazing as the pilot and Big Finish continue to produce great stories. Whatever happens I will be glued to the TV/CD Player.

I was wondering whether it is possible for you to send me a signed photo of yourself that would truly make my day. I have enclosed a self-addressed envelope so there is no cost to you. If you do not have a photo then could you sign a piece of paper for me? If the photo is too big for the envelope please fold to prevent any cost incurred to you.

Thanking once again David for your hard work.

All the best for your career and the future

Mat (Doctor Who's, Torchwood's and Sarah-Jane's biggest fan)
