Open-City is London's leading architecture education organisation.

We champion the value of well-designed places and spaces in making a liveable and vibrant city, and the role everyone plays within it.

Open-City's other key programmes include:

Green Sky Thinking - a week long, London-wide events programme for built environment and property professionals highlighting innovative practice on how we design in sustainability.

Architecture in Schools – over 500 pupils from 14 London wide schools participate by partnering with over 40 architects and built environment professionals.

Accelerate into University - offers students from under-represented communities, a unique opportunity to develop the skills required for entry to higher education built environment courses (architecture, planning, engineering). Delivered in partnership with UCL's Bartlett School of Architecture and Make Architects.

Open House Worldwide - over 30 cities across the globe join in celebrating the simple but powerful Open House concept: showcasing outstanding architecture for all to experience, completely for free.

With grateful thanks to Open House London sponsors, supporters and partners including local authorities in London, VIEW pictures, Arma, Legible London, Photographers Gallery and Vocaleyes

"Open House has not only been an enjoyable way for us to show our recently completed project, Forest Mews, in a direct and personal way but has also helped us to win an award."

Jessica and Robert Barker, Forest Mews

"Open House is one of the most exciting initiatives for our city today."
