31ST JULY, 1950.

"ON MONDAY NEXT" is a play all about a Repertory Company—it might even be your Repertory Company. So this week we are taking you behind the scenes at a Wednesday morning rehearsal, and we would like to warn you that you are there at your own risk!

Having seen the play, you will probably be surprised that the show gets on at all on a Monday night, but perhaps we are not really as temperamental as we are made out, and it is true that there are many interruptions and much noise, but the actors are essentially human people and do talk about such mundane things as rations and laundry.

This play was received with great enthusiasm when it was produced in the West End, and we trust you also will have a very enjoyable evening with us.

We take much pleasure in welcoming John Tompsett back with us this week, and hope it will not be too long before we see him here again.

We regret Mr. Everitt is leaving us at the end of the week, we know you have all enjoyed his musical arrangements. However, his absence is only temporary and as it has something to do with wedding bells we are sure you will join with us in wishing him every happiness.

NEXT WEEK—Week commencing 7th August—
