THE PAST IS A TATTOOED SAILOR

BY SIMON BLOW

Past and present are one in the sleeping manor house where Uncle Napier lives in an eternal doze.

Why is upper class boy Joshua seeking out his great-uncle? What has made his destroyed privileged background have this hold on him? Can he escape the burden of 'class'? Love for his new builder boyfriend Damien is a step in the right direction – bringing with it the sexual attraction of opposites.

Uncle Napier draws both boys into his delusions that his own youth has not faded, and that a muscular sailor will give this Sleeping Beauty the reviving kiss. Thus Uncle Napier drifts in reverie. Until the two boys and Uncle Napier are sharply awakened by visits from Joshua's rich by inheritance Cousin Patrick. And what sinister thoughts lie behind Patrick's tight-lipped comments? What exactly is he seeking?
